Property Description

Architect Benjamin Saxe has masterfully designed Casa Mar De Paraíso, a stunning embodiment of luxurious tropical living. This exquisite residence features four bedrooms and four and a half bathrooms, nestled within the prestigious Senderos gated community, offering breathtaking views of Tamarindo Beach and its vibrant freshwater estuary surrounded by lush landscapes. Upon entering, you're greeted by a bright foyer that leads to the home's central living area. The space is enhanced by teak vaulted prism ceilings, sleek black steel beams, and expansive floor-to-ceiling windows, creating a perfect harmony between indoor comfort and outdoor beauty. The main living space transitions seamlessly into a sophisticated dining area, featuring a remarkable dining table, crafted from a single piece of Guanacaste wood, which accommodates ten guests. Adjacent lies the chef's kitchen, adorned with elegant pendant lighting, striking porcelain countertops, a generous island with waterfall edges, additional seating for four, and rich wooden accents.
